The stairs were the culmination of a significant effort in both the shop and the field. It was made of plain sawn white oak treads and landings laminated to 3" thick in three layers, and laminated for width. Each tread weighs approximately 120 lbs. On their own, the stairs encompassed a total of more than 1,100 man hours.

The Cincinnati Hotel

Stanton Millworks was selected to create a vast portfolio of custom shelving, restaurant elements, and a stunning feature wall in the lobby, all as part of extensive renovations to the historic Cincinnati Hotel as it became Ohio's first Curio Collection by Hilton Hotel. The portfolio of work included:

- Host station, main bar, and wall casings in the new American-style gastropub, Brick + Mortar.
- Custom shelving and doors in The Hannaford eatery.
- Custom shelving and wall casings in public gathering spaces, including the first-floor library and lounge.
- A feature wall on display in the lobby. The stunning work pays homage to Cincinnati's hills. Made from all Red Oak material, solid and veneer, with vertical slats made from plywood that has been miter-folded into the solid-looking 2x shape. The slats are also semi-removable to allow access to the LED lighting. Lighting from LED tape follows the contours of the hills on a recessed sublayer. Each layer consists of five panels that were shaped on our CNC router, and jointed in the field.
